

Terms of Use

The information presented on this website is not a substitute for personalized legal advice. You cannot become our client by reading this web site, or by sending one of us an e-mail message, even if we reply to it. An attorney-client relationship is not formed until (1) you receive an engagement letter from this firm, explaining the scope of the legal work we will do for you and the fee we will charge; (2) you agree to the terms of representation; and (3) pay the deposit (“retainer”) toward the fee, if required.